

STARTERS

The uniqueness at Via Emilia is our special bread which has a different name in each city: 'Chisulino' in Piacenza, 'Gnocco Fritto' in Modena and Reggio Emilia, 'Torta Fritta' in Parma, 'Crescentina' in Bologna, 'Pinzino' in Ferrara. Different names for the same product: a soft freshly-made and gently-fried bread to taste with our personally sourced charcuterie and cheese. We encourage to enjoy this starter experience in the authentic way: using only your hands!

HOME-HAND-MADE PASTA

Each egg pasta dish we serve is passionately home-hand-made in our kitchen in front of you and is the typical one of that specific city. For a reason each dish is not written in Italian but in dialect, the local language of that city. We suggest 3 pastas to share every 2 people. All pastas are served 'al dente' and topped with parmesan. We also offer home-made Gluten-free egg tagliatelle (£12) with any sauce.

- MENU -

With our second FOOD ROOTS' venue after 'In Parma' in central London, we wanted to focus on food products, recipes, beers and wines that come from Emilia-Romagna, the region in the north of Italy where the homemade egg pasta was originally invented!

But it's not all about pasta because our uniqueness is also the typical regional bread: the popular "Gnocco Fritto", definitely a "must eat" in here to savour with charcuterie & cheese. The name 'Via Emilia' comes from an ancient Roman road that still crosses the region connecting the main cities: from west to east Piacenza, Parma, Reggio Emilia, Modena, Bologna, Ferrara, Ravenna, Forlì, Cesena and Rimini.

The most popular wine is the Lambrusco, a “must drink” for the best combination with our food. We might not have Prosecco but we have Pignoletto, we might miss Brunello di Montalcino but we have a premium Sangiovese “Liano” that you will hardly forget.
